

Which sectors have the most jobs in South Yorkshire?

Retail- A job in this sector involves selling goods or services to customers who are shopping and buying products.

Health and social care- A job in the social care sector means that you will be providing support for non-clinical needs. Health and social care workers can provide their support to the people in need in their own homes or residential home.

Manufacturing- This is the production of products for use or sale using machines, tools, chemical or biological processes. The term may refer to any activity from handicraft to high tech, but is most commonly applied to industrial design, in which raw materials from primary industry are transformed into finished goods on a large scale.

Education- Work in this sector involves enabling learning and giving learners knowledge, skills, values, beliefs, and habits. Education usually takes place in schools, colleges and Higher Education institutions.

Administration- This job involves acting as a first point of contact for a manager or team with colleagues and people from outside organisations, taking telephone enquiries, taking and passing on messages, arranging and attending meetings and taking notes or preparing records of proceedings.